Italy's Insurgency The Victory of Faith They Still Love Him

S The Evening Herald pre-A dicted efeven days ago, the Italo-Slav question has be-come the first real skeleton at the peace feast. For the first time since the Paris conference assembled, a real crisis was precipitated by Premier Orlando today.

Those of us who remember of the glorious chapters of Italian history chapters teening with acts of self-sacrifice and self-denial for the cause of humanity cannot believe that the real Italy is speaking today. We cannot believe that the descendants of Caribaidi will plunge the world into another war for so much territory "that may be grasped thus."

As for the controversy itself, it is so involved that the only power on earth which can decide it is, as

B of the harmonic at the Administration of the mean of the think that the parties of the mean of the mean of the sum of the means the mean of the mean of the means the mean of the means the means the mean of the means the mean

Regardless of the merits of the dispute, however, we do not believe that Italy should withdraw from the conference, and thus peop-ardize the peace of the whole world a peace which has been so shearly bought.

BOTH HANGARS AT ALBUQUERQUE AVIATION SCHOOL BLOWN DOWN BY GALE; AIRPLANE IS DAMAGED

Catastrophe Happened About Midnight and Could Not Be Averted by Workmen Who Did Everything Possible for Hours; Extent of Damage Not Yet Ascertained; Uncompleted Hangar Blown Clear to Canyon; Plans for Reconstruction Not Yet Made by Officers of School.

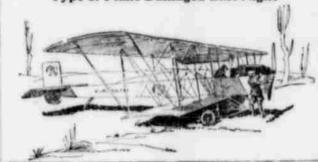

The Chamber of Commerce arges people not to lose faith in the Aviation school, "Only one plane has been damaged," said a chamber official in issuing a statement relative to the school this morniny, "and that can be repaired at a relatively small cost. The additional planes have not arrived fet and will soon be here

"Prospects for business in the aviation soluted line were never briffster," continued the official. "The Chamber of Commerce in tends to continue its escaperation with the school in every possible

A survey of the damage has just been made and indicates that the loss is not as beavy as was first supposed. All of the lumber of the Hangars can be salvaged and contrary to suppose tion last night, the plane is not nearly so much wrecked as was

An indication of the strength of the machine can be seen by the fact that although over a ton of lumber fell on one wing, the wing was only slightly damaged. Lieutenants Mason and Witt feel sure that the plane can be rebuilt here at relative small cost.

TOMORROW'S HERALD CARRIES ALBUQUERQUE'S GREETING TO NEW MEXICO CATTLE GROWERS

JOE WH.I. find tomorrow's edition of the Evening Herald of Y OF WH.I. and tomorrow's addition of the Rvening Herald of more than ordinary interest. In addition to the usual list of special week end features, departments for which Herald readors have come to show a keen and gratifying appreciation, this work's Saturday Herald will earry the greeting of Albaquer que to the Cattle Growers of New Mexico, who are to meet be convention next work. Business men in every line have joined with the Herald in extending their share of Albuquerque's welsome to the state's strongest industrial organization, the New Mexico Cattle and Horse Growers' association.

Just a word to home people about the advertisements in to morrow's edition We should like you to look them over with care, to note the wide range of business covered; to study the character of the advertising, its dignity, and its reliability.

The Herald is not striving to make a "tog" newspaper in number of pages, although we are frequently surprised by the number of pages necessary to meet advertising space demands. We are striving to make a strong newspaper in the news, editorial, educational and entertainment features. We are striving to give you more than full value in every department.

You will find that the Herald, day by day, brings you the big news first. You will find that it is bringing you a constantly improving feature and educational service. You will find that it making a steady, persistent effort to give you the best there is in modern newspaper service. Also, if you watch closely from day to day and from week to week, you will see the Herald grow.
